

Team Drucker: "The best way to predict the future is to create it."

Project Title	Team Drucker: "The best way to predict the future is to create it."
Project Summary	Do you have a picture of Peter Drucker on your desk? Do you read the Harvard Business Review cover to cover? Can you quote leadership theory from memory? Know the difference between working groups and teams? Want to find a place where it can be applied? Then we want to talk to you!
Country	United States
Agency	Department of State
DoS Office	NEA/SCA-EX
Post	N/A
Section	N/A
Number of Interns	6

Project Description

The Executive Office (EX) of the Bureaus of Near Eastern Affairs (NEA) and South and Central Asian Affairs (SCA) is creating a student led Management Research team. This team will be expected to provide in-depth and relevant research, summary, and highlights to management, leadership, and operations research for our management professionals overseas at embassies abroad. Leverage your skills, knowledge, and abilities to design information products on current management and leadership theory, design an assessment framework for team effectiveness, and facilitate assessments and teambuilding via virtual engagement.

This is a unique team in the building focused almost exclusively on applying modern management and leadership theory for our management platforms overseas. Interested parties should have a robust background in business, management, and leadership, be able to write and speak effectively, and create traditional and digital products.

Desired Skills Interests

Additional Information

None

Language Requirements

None